

Marie-Pascale BOISSON has been appointed, by Sovereign Order N° 8.243 on September 2 2020, Extraordinary and Plenipotentiary Ambassador of the Principality of Monaco to the Commonwealth of Australia. She is therefore the third Monaco Ambassador to Australia since the creation of the bilateral relationships in 2007.

Graduated in law, and more specifically in business law, she worked more than twelve years in the private sector, as legal advisor for international trade companies, in Paris and then Monaco, before joining the Monaco public administration in 1998.

She joined then the legal services of the Monaco State, where she has participated to legal drafting in the private law sectors, more specifically in corporate law or banking and financial law. She worked then on many international topics, in particular the conventions regarding the Monaco membership to the Council of Europe in 2004.

After the Legal Services Department, where she has participated to the many international legal cooperation topics, she has been appointed in 2008 to the Finance and Economy Department, before being then appointed in 2011, Director of the Information Service and Financial System Control, the Monaco Financial Intelligence Unit. She fulfilled, at that time, the function of Chief of the Monaco Delegation to the MONEYVAL and GRECO committees of the Council of Europe, respectively in charge of the fight against money laundering and the financing of terrorism, and against corruption. She left this function in 2018 to join the General Inspection of the Administration of the Monaco Government.

Since her nomination as Monaco Ambassador to Australia, Marie-Pascale BOISSON is involved in collaboration with the Monaco institutions, and also with the two Monaco Honorary Consuls in Sydney and Melbourne, to promote the Principality of Monaco in Australia and to reinforce in between the two countries the areas of common interest, first among which the environmental, economical and cultural topics.

Within her diplomatic mission, the Ambassador and her team are delighted to bring support and help in any case to the Monaco citizens and residents who are travelling or are living in Australia.
